

Call for applications for the RIKEN BSI Brain Science Training Program 2016-2017!

Brain Science Training Program is a long-term program for a small, select group of students in the first year of graduate studies at Japanese universities, but applications will also be accepted from undergraduate students with a strong interest in brain science. The program is developed in close collaboration with BSI's academic partners and takes full advantage of the diversity of BSI. Lectures and training sessions are conducted in English.

Deadline for applications: July 31, 2016
